FROM WOMAN'S POINT OF VIEW

Those who allow the warnings of beauty specialists to interfere with a free, outdoor life deserve to pass their days in a state of invalidism, for nothing can compare with good health and bright spirits, and sun and air are natural beautifiers with which fashion should not be allowed to interfere.

Beauty doctors declare that motoring, boating, and other outdoor sports ruin the complexion; well, nobody can dispute the fact that there never were so many handsome women as are to be met in autos and on shipboard, on tennis courts, and at golf links and races, and in every case they show the healthy brown and red of sun and wind. Beauty is a matter of individual taste, and if we become accustomed to the healthy type what more is needed?

I do not believe in the blistered condition of the skin which results from over-exposure. It is both ugly and painful and generally unnecessary. A gradual hardening of the skin is enough to prevent such a condition, and that comes from an intimate acquaintance with the air and sun at all seasons. The tint deepens in warm weather and is rarely unbecoming.

English women and Irish girls are noted for the beauty of their skins, and both nations practically live out of doors. French women, on the other hand, are pale and disinclined to outdoor sports, taking their daily doses of fresh air in carriages and behind the protection of the veil. It is the French type of beauty which is held up to us by beauty doctors.

A certain degree of attention to skin is necessary to good grooming. There are creams for dry skins and lotions for oily ones, and tonics for tired ones of both classes. But I do not believe that good grooming desires bleaching where there are no unsightly spots and the sacrifice of strength and pleasure. Primarily homes were intended for shelter in bad weather, and we do well to keep them to their original purpose.

Freckles have ceased to be a bugbear, as everybody knows, that they can be bleached out at will. Thin skins furnish them in abundance, but I have known several instances where a regular diet of sun and air has banished them by toughening the skin. To wear the type of beauty which is held up to us by beauty doctors.

PLEASANT TROLLEY TRIP.

BONAPARTE TO STAY.

Attorney General Denies He Intends to Quit Cabinet.

Baltimore, Aug. 7.—Attorney General Bonaparte has no idea of resigning his position as a Cabinet officer, at least until the end of the Roosevelt administration term. This disposes of the report from Washington that Mr. Bonaparte was contemplating getting out of the November election, and that Wade H. Ellis, of Ohio, would succeed him.

In reply to a telegram sent him at Lenox, Mass., Mr. Bonaparte wired:

"I have not the least intention of resigning before the end of the present administration. Have denied this story so often that I think further denials on my part are unnecessary."

MRS. FRAYSER'S FUNERAL.

UNIQUE FUND HEIRRESS DEAD.

Compact Made at Convent Seventy-five Years Ago Nets Her $15,000.

St. Louis, Aug. 7.—Mrs. Margaret Castens, ninety-four years of age, who received $15,000 three years ago as the result of a unique compact entered into by sixty-five girls in the convent of St. Ann's school, is dead at the home of her daughter.

Seventy-five years ago Mrs. Castens was a pupil at the convent of St. Ann's. The girls agreed before they graduated to pay a certain number of marks a year into a Berlin bank, the entire amount to go to the last surviving member of the class.

Three years ago Mrs. Castens found herself the only one of the class remaining.

RULES FOR CONTESTS.

Playground Management Adopts Them to Insure Honesty.

For the purpose of assuring honest athletics for children, rules to govern playground contests and cards for registration of the children were issued yesterday at headquarters of the playground committee.

This action was necessary to prevent boys from entering contests, from which they were barred by the age limit, under assumed names. According to an official, the breaking of rules will be punishable by debarment from all contests. Much trouble has been caused the directors of the playgrounds by parents of contestants, who dispute decisions and in other ways interfere with the conduct of the contests. The rules were framed with a view to stopping this difficulty.

Deal with German Opera Houses.

New York, Aug. 7.—The Metropolitan Opera House has completed an arrangement by which the Metropolitan enters the union of German opera houses on the same terms as the large opera theaters in Vienna, Berlin, and Dresden. This means that the Metropolitan will be able to sing in these theaters for a short season here by giving to the foreign opera houses the services of some of the singers at the Metropolitan.

WAIFS MADE JOYFUL

Five Hundred Tots Taken for Trip on Bay.

GUESTS OF RAILWAY COMPANY

Washington, Baltimore and Annapolis Line Carries City-weaned Tots to Quaint Old City of Annapolis and Gives Them a Steamboat Ride on the Historic Chesapeake.

Worn but satisfied after a day full of adventure and fun, about 500 city-weaned children and their mothers, under charge of the Associated Charities, reached White House Station of the Washington, Baltimore and Annapolis Electric Railway at 9 o'clock last night.

They had been the guests of the electric line and the Tolchester Company, of Baltimore, on a trip over the electric road to Annapolis, and from there out into Chesapeake Bay and West River that was replete with surprises and pleasures.

A train of five large cars with its merry freight pulled out of White House Station at 9 o'clock, and speeded over the line to Annapolis, where the steamer, the Emma Giles, was waiting. All were aboard the vessel by 11:30 o'clock, and the trip into the white-capped Chesapeake was begun.

Three huge freezers of ice cream had been provided by the railroad company, and soon after starting, Acting Secretary Jones, of the Associated Charities, aided by his corps of women assistants, formed the crowd of children and mothers into line, and passed them before the freezers, where cream in cones was served out as fast as two men could fill them. Later, this was repeated, for there was plenty for a second round.

Steamed Into the Bay.

After an hour's steam into the bay, the boat headed into the West River, and here it was the fun commenced. Presently dock was made at a little village called Galesville, where a crowd of farmers, summer boarders, and many oar-teams were seen. After discharging the freight loads of ice cream, the whole ship's complement of officers and men began the task of loading on several calves and steers that made it clear they had serious objections to going to sea.

The calves did not give so much trouble, but when it came to the steers and the bulls there was another story. With one husky piece of premature beef it took the crew of twenty-four men fifteen minutes to induce the animal to join the outing of the Associated Charities. The children and their mothers crowded the upper decks and laughed heartily at the struggle, the victory in which finally went to the ship's men.

Two or three other landings were made, and at the last one, Contee's wharf, in Rhode River, a surprise was given the crowd by John Collier and his brothers, who own most of the farms at that station. They sent aboard a dozen large boxes of peaches, plums, and apples, with their compliments, for the guests of the occasion.

Again Secretary Jones and his fellow-workers had their hands full, for the 200 had to be placed in line once more and the crowd of officers and men began to be easily accomplished, and from that time on until Washington was reached, Dr. Clarence Weaver, the railroad company's physician, kept careful watch over the crowd, and in a few cases his services were in demand.

Through the courtesy of Purser Francis, of the Emma Giles, the whole boat was thrown open to the Washington visitors, and for a time some of the ship's officers furnished music for dancing and singing. A threatening wind and rain storm came up about 4 o'clock, but this proved serious enough to cool the air and refresh the mothers, who had brought their infants in arms.

Set Out and Took Notice.

The steamer made the dock at Annapolis about 7 o'clock, and the staid, old town sat up and took notice when the long line of women and children passed through to board the electric cars for Washington.

Once aboard, the trip was made through to the station at Fifteenth and H streets northeast without incident. J. J. Doyle, superintendent of the road, personally supervised the movement of the train, which was the longest in the history of the company, and G. H. Gall, publicity manager of the company, accompanied the party over the entire trip.

KNIGHTS GET DRENCHING.

Downpour Spoils Last Day of the Pythian Encampment.

Boston, Aug. 7.—The rain was the last but not the least of the annoyances of the Knights of Pythias camp in Franklin Field, while the storm was still descending this afternoon Brig. Gen. Stobart, of Minnesota, admitted that at 5 o'clock Camp Lyon would be little more than a memory.

"It seems," Gen. Stobart said ruefully, "as if we had been hoodwinked from the start. This is the finishing touch."

Cambridge, Mass., where the record rain of 1908. Company streets were deserted. In almost all the tents that remained Knights were busy getting their effects together. The official schedule calls for the "struggle camp" at sunrise to-morrow. At that hour there will be little camp left to "struggle."

To-day's programme was scarcely begun when the rain sent all hands to cover.

While you think of it, telephone your Want Ad to the Washington Herald, and bill will be sent you at 1 cent a word.

We close at 5 p. m.; Saturdays, 1 p. m.

Reduced Prices and Credit.

Now is your chance to get the best bargains of the whole year, for we have cut prices right and left, and you can well take advantage of them, because we are quite willing to make our usual liberal terms of credit. Prices have been deeply cut on all summer needs, and also on a great many staple goods, as we must make a clearance before the arrival of our fall stocks.

CLOSE OF OPERA SEASON.

Management Has to Reserve Entire House for Crowds.

So great has been the demand for seats to witness the farewell performance of the Aborn Opera Company at the National Theater to-night, that the management has found it necessary to reserve the gallery of the theater to accommodate those desiring seats in choice locations. When the curtain rises to-night it will be on the 120th performance of the season, a season that has covered fifteen weary weeks which the Waldorf-Astoria presentations of a varied repertoire of operas, ranging from "Carmen" to "Flotadora."

The closing programme prepared for to-night is an unusually elaborate one. Speeches will be made by all of the principals in the big cast of fifty singers and players, and a souvenir photograph of the entire organization in "The Belle of New York" will be presented to every woman present. Mr. Nace Bonville, the stage manager of the company, will be master of ceremonies, and will introduce all the artists to the audience. After the performance the entire company will sing "Auld Lang Syne," accompanied by the orchestra.

Owing to the crowds expected to-night, the doors will be opened promptly at 7:30, fifteen minutes earlier than usual.

SMALL SUM STRIPS OFFICIALS.

Twenty Dollars, Found on Dead Sailor, Excites Two Departments.

The ownership of $20, found on the body of an unidentified sailor which was washed ashore at Key West, Barracks, Fla., has caused a large amount of work and worry to the legal sharps of two executive departments.

Life savers notified the Treasury Department and claimed the money by right of possession. The body was washed ashore on a military reservation, and the commanding officer contended that the money should go to the War Department. Reels of red tape were started, and there was much letter-writing between the War and Treasury Departments. The Secretary of War submitted the case to the Judge Advocate General's office, and the money belonged to the Government, but he did not settle the burning question as to whether it should be placed to the credit of the War or the Treasury Department.

Secretary of War Wright has written a letter to the Secretary of the Treasury asking for the life savers' side of the case.

WANTS PINE PLAINS SITE

War Department Will Ask Congress to Provide for Purchase.

Decision of Officers' Board Overturned and Permanent Maneuver Camp May Be Located There.

It is probable that the War Department will request Congress, at its next session, to appropriate money sufficient to purchase the site at Pine Plains, N. Y., for use as a joint camp for maneuvers between the regular army and the militia of the various Eastern States.

A board of army officers, consisting of Col. John L. Chamberlain, inspector general of the Department of the East; Lieut. Col. Edwin E. Glenn, chief of staff of the recent maneuvers at Pine Plains; Lieut. Col. William C. Langstaff, Maj. Charles E. Woodruff, chief sanitary officer; Maj. Joseph T. Dickman, Maj. Carl Reichman, and Capt. William T. Johnston, recorder, was appointed by the War Department to consider the purchase of the camp site.

This board recommended against the purchase of the site, because the officers thought the railroad facilities were inadequate, and because it was exposed to dust and storms. The board admitted that, from a sanitary point of view, the site was irrefragable.

The War Department has disapproved the findings of the board, and Secretary Wright has directed the general staff of the army to make estimates for the improvement of the site for use as a maneuver camp. The Department contends that lack of railroad facilities can be overcome by supplying additional track, while dust and storms will be found almost everywhere. The Department believes, from all points of view, is more desirable than any other that has been brought to the attention of the military authorities.

ELKS GIVE TOTS AN OUTING.

Take Children of Bruen Home to Glen Echo Park.

A merry picnic and outing to Glen Echo was given several days ago by the local Elks to the children of the Bruen Home, 436 M street northwest. The party started early in the morning in charge of Mrs. Henley, matron of the home, and several volunteers from among the Elks.

All the amusements of the resort were thrown open to the little ones, and they had a royal time. Far from the least enjoyable part of the day was the noon hour, when the numerous baskets of good things to eat were opened. The party returned about dusk, tired, but thoroughly happy.
